Music at Lovington Church of England Primary School - Intent

Here at Lovington Primary School, music education is a highly valued, enjoyable experience for pupils and teachers. Teachers recognise the fundamental importance of music in supporting child development and ensure that music lessons are highly quality and engaging.

Children experience music from a variety of cultures and eras throughout their lessons to ignite their passion and appreciation for music that will last a lifetime. Children participate in a range of musical activities, developing their confidence at the same time. They develop their understanding of technical terminology alongside refining their skills such as rhythm, pitch and how music is structured. Over time as children's confidence grows they perform aspects of their music learning to their peers and adults.

“Music is the universal language of mankind.”

– Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Implementation

Music is taught as a discrete subject but also woven through our other curriculum subjects. Particularly in KS1 songs during maths lessons for concepts such as times tables, doubling and subtraction are enhanced by singing, which allows knowledge to become memorable. Music is entwined in our computing curriculum by composing digital music, and in geography children hear music from different cultures and understand what role music plays for others lives.

Our weekly singing collective worship allows the children opportunities to develop their singing skills and gain an understanding of how ensembles and rounds work. Throughout the academic year performances, such as nativities and end of year shows, demonstrate that music is important to the life of the school.

Our school choir meets on a weekly basis to rehearse performances for local performance events outside of school as well as practising songs for our assemblies and shows. Children are encouraged to take on solo's as well as singing as part of an ensemble.

Impact

Music allows children to gain a deeper appreciation of culture and history, both in terms of their personal individuality and that of diverse cultures around the world. Children are offered various ways to engage, whether as listeners, creators, or performers. They can express and share their thoughts, opinions, and ideas about music, recognising and respecting the differences in perspective as a positive aspect. Children will have the opportunity to analyse musical components, sing, and experience rhythm and pulse.

At Lovington C of E Primary, children are provided with opportunities beyond the National Curriculum to further and support their understanding. These include having visitors with a musical talent, visiting concerts and school productions. Children have an understanding of how to further develop skills less known to them, should they ever develop an interest in their lives.
